REP. CAUCUS SHORT, HARMONIOUS

Fifteen minutes sufficed for the harmonious republican caucus Thursday evening in the town hall where about 100 members of the party elected the four Norwich delegates to the state convention in New Haven, March 23-24, and the eight members of the republican town committee.

The following were the delegates to the state convention elected: H. M. Lerou, Alderman Charles F. Wells, Joseph H. Henderson and Dr. George Thompson.

Attorney H. H. Pettis, chairman of the republican town committee, called the meeting to order promptly on the the republican town committee, called the meeting to order promptly on the stroke of eight and called for nominations for a chairman of the meeting. Zepulon R. Robbins was nominated and elected by acclamation, taking the chair amid applause.

He said that he feld highly complimented by being called upon to preside at this caucus of the party, which was the occasion of firing the first political gun of the season. It signifies a great deal and is really a more important caucus than some might realize. Much depends upon the character and quality of men elected at this caucus for they are to assist in selecting the delegates from this state to the national convention. That convention. Mr. Robbins said, he believed would select men to lead the republican party to victory in Norwich. We hipe this leader will be a peace-loving man, but not one too proud to fight and we hope that the man we get in the White House will not devote all his time to piling up complications and embroiling fine United States with the European powers. (Applause).

WAISTS AND GLOVES SHOWN DURING THIRD STYLE DAY

Gray skies did not prevent the shoppers from flocking to the stores during Thursday, the third of the formal Spring Style Days.

The departments of millinery, coats and suits were the atraction for many, while other buyers found much to interest them in the new offerings in walets.

This season the fashinable blouse comes in gaorgettes, tricolette, pussy willow, radium silk and French volle. The striking features of the newest models are the short gleeves and the buttons at the back. The slip-on idea is cleverly carried out in some of the smartest designs, while the kimono sleeve features many of the most charming waists.

Among the best colors are blue dawn and peach. No square necks are now to be found—the round neck is the prevailiny mode this spring. A novelty in some designs is the belt with sash ends at the side. Button trimmings is greatly favored and wool embroidery, so popular in millin-ery, has invaded the walst depart-ment, also.

ment, also.

Dainty and charming are the French voile waists, hand embroidered, or with finest of drawn work. Many are in the slip-on effect. The prices of these beautiful models begin at $6.75.

at $6.75.

In fact, the advance in blouse prices is one condition for which all shoppers must be prepared. This amounts to fully 25 per cent., due to the prevailing conditions of trade. Nevertheless, the prices of georgette waistsfrom $6.98 to $18.25, of tricolete from $10 up and of the volles as stated, is easily understood, when one has noted the quality of the material, the smartness of the cut and the dainties of the finish.
